EVALUATIONS - TEACHING USING LIVE CHAT SESSIONS

April 2009

Comments

More relevant discussion occurred than in the previous session. I got a lot more out of this one, I think that says something about the participants and what they bring to each session. I feel I had little to give but was glad others had things to share.

I was very pleased with the content. It was directly related to online courses that I take at ACU.

Would have liked a practice of using whiteboard - and advanced session??

The workshop was well run and I thought it a most useful tool to be taught how to use live chat by doing the workshop as a participant of live chat - thanks.

Most Useful

The ideas for use that were suggested by others and the discussion that followed.

The ideas for organising a chat session and the different techniques that can be used to enhance the experience for students.

Thinking about how to set up the contents of the live chat session and how to structure it to get the most out of it.

Least useful

Still coming to terms with chat and my ability to keep up with the multiple conversations.

The evaluation didn't work... apparently.

I wanted to learn more about how to set up group work on live chat but I was promised this could be followed up at a later time
