The Journal of Catholic School Studies is a national and international refereed journal which caters to individuals working in and beyond Catholic schools and Catholic education systems at all levels.

A bi-annual journal, it provides readers with a unique insight into current research; articles of historical, theological, and pedagogical interest; essays and book reviews which showcase the vibrancy of Catholic education in the country.

Editor Dr Janelle Young and Sub-Editor Associate Professor Michael Bezzina invite you to submit high quality papers on any issues of relevance to Catholic education.

Articles from the latest issue include:
- The school choice decisions of Catholic families
- Berryman and the purpose of Religious Education
- Consumption or conversion
- The poor and Catholic schools
- Student ministry: Youth ‘step up’ to lead and serve
- Step up into teaching
