CONFERENCE

DEALING WITH DIVERSITY IN A COMPLEX, GLOBAL WORLD

20 - 21 October, 2007– Australian Catholic University

Invitation to Participate

The Centre for Social, Emotional, Cognitive, and Behavioural Development proudly announces its Annual Conference. The Conference is auspiced by Australian Catholic University and the School of Psychology within ACU. The Conference will include keynote speakers, exciting symposia, individual papers, posters, and professional roundtables. A special feature of the Conference will be a special focus on post graduate students completing their professional psychology training presenting the research they undertook as part of that training. The Conference is an ideal opportunity for practitioners and researchers to network as well as participate in an inspiring conference. If you have a paper, some research, a student with research or all three please give serious consideration to participating in, and attending the 2007 Conference.

Conference Theme and Focus

The theme for the Conference this year is Dealing with Diversity in a Complex Global World. The conference provides a venue to discuss matters related to the topic, present a paper, to chair a professional roundtable, to participate in a roundtable. We would welcome contributions on the topic.

Conference Abstracts

Abstracts will be blind reviewed for consideration for inclusion in the conference program.
Key Note Speakers

Each day of the Conference will begin with a Key Note Speaker.

Abstract Submission Details
